

Schools take center stage

by Jeff Nazzaro

News that Town Manager Michael Cairra has afforded the school department an extra $1.1 million to, among other things, reopen the Boutwell School has, while providing a much needed quick fix for a school overcrowding crisis, unveiled a whole new tableau of questions facing the department - and only a little more than a week after being announced at the Jan. 23 board of selectmen meeting.

Tuesday evening, the Wilmington School Building Committee mulled over immediate problems, such as potential system-wide redistricting, transportation and exactly which grades will be assigned to the Boutwell, while facing the stark reality that the town will outgrow the additional school in as little two years.

And all of that is without taking into account that the Boutwell reopening will likely divert funds from other school department needs, most probably text book adoption.

"We need another building," O'Donnell said at last Wednesday's school committee meeting. "We're going to outgrow the Boutwell in a year."

While perhaps informative to the in-house and cable TV audiences viewing the meeting, the statement was hardly news to the building committee, which includes members from the board of selectmen and finance committee as well as school board members and parents. Tuesday the 14-member panel began tossing around ideas as to how to land another school for the town's burgeoning population of youngsters. But first they have to figure out what to do with the new school they just got.

The choices number two at this stage: make the Boutwell a kindergarten through fourth grade elementary school; or, move all of the town's kindergarten classes to the Boutwell.

The primary issue is, of course, cost. O'Donnell said that having an all-kindergarten Boutwell may be more fiscally conservative, since carrying elementary grades means carrying extra staff, including a guidance counselor, plus lunch facilities and accompanying staff.

As a K-4 school, O'Donnell said staffing for the Boutwell would probably not include a librarian or physical education instructor, or reading specialist, but would include a nurse and a half-time guidance counselor.

Then there is the issue of redistricting and busing.

If the Boutwell is used as a K-4 school, the system would send to the Boutwell not only students from the closer Shawsheen School but also from the overcrowded Wildwood School, though some from the latter would be sent to the Woburn Street School, situated in North Wilmington.

In any case, redistricting would mean that some children would be moved, an idea unsettling to some parents, but one both committees are acutely aware of.

School Committeeman Bob Young, who also sits on the building committee last Wednesday forecasted the situation by saying "It's going to be a fix over here, but ... we're all going to have to suffer for it, and again, it's a town-wide problem, and some of us may not be happy at other schools because our kids are being shifted, but we really have to look at it as a town-wide problem."

O'Donnell warned both the school committee and the building committee against potential overcrowding at the Boutwell that could lead to children being bused back to the Shawsheen.

All of the above has led O'Donnell to seemingly favor using the Boutwell as the town's kindergarten. Some of the positives of such a move include having whole new groups of students each year being introduced together at one school and allowing kindergarten teachers to collaborate with ideas and share supplies and teaching materials.

But, she said, no real-time against increased elementary school overcrowding would be gained by such a move, and that might be enough to overshadow the "slight economic savings."

Young said he believes educationally the all-kindergarten format would work best, but that it would cost more money to bus all the town's kindergarten students to the Boutwell.

As housing growth in the town continues to soar, so too does the number of school-age children. From Oct. 10 of last year through Tuesday, the school system had absorbed an additional 31 students. Currently, 54 percent of the town's 3,184 students are at the elementary level, while 77 percent occupy grades K through eight.

Beyond the Boutwell, the building committee began looking at new school sites, including giving the current Town Hall back to the school department and building a fire/police station and town hall into one complex - an idea suggested by Young.

Selectman Chairman Michael McCoy, also a building committee member, said the town should begin looking at potentially valuable parcels of town-owned land to sell toward constructing such a facility. McCoy indicated he has opposed such land sales in the past and said it was, for now, "just an idea."

The school building committee will meet again on Feb. 28 and at that time vote to recommend to the school committee how the Boutwell should be used for the 1995-96 school year.

WBZ-TV meteorologist Bruce Schwoegler turns the camera on the Wildwood School and in-line skates and pads prizewinners John Bell, grade two, and 5th grader Amanda von Herrmann, standing. 5th grader Jessica Saporito and grade four's Eric Jacobs (kneeling) won Tornado Tubes - small toys used to simulate twisters. Schwoegler, who appeared at the Wildwood Tuesday, was given a corsage donated by Designs by Don and displayed on that night's Channel 4 newscast. Portions of the meteorologist's video can be seen near the close of Thursday's hour-long broadcast - at least that's what he forecast to the kids (photo by Jeff Nazzaro).

Wilmington schools selected for math & science program

by Linda Jarossi

At last Wednesday's meeting Superintendent Geraldine O'Donnell informed the school committee that Wilmington was chosen as one of the school demonstration sites for a math and science improvement program being held by the Merrimack Education Center (MEC).

The program is focused on assisting "faculty and administration in developing an action team for improving curriculum in math, science, and technology," according to a letter O'Donnell received from MEC.

Two teachers from each of the three areas will form a leadership team and become "a think tank," O'Donnell said. There will then be additional training and workshops for other teachers interested in improving their skills.

Twenty-five school districts applied to be demonstration sites and 14 were chosen. O'Donnell said she feels that one of the advantages of this program is that it will allow Wilmington teachers to interact with other districts and benefit from diverse ideas.

"There's a lot we can gain from this and I'm pleased we're involved in it," O'Donnell said.

Later in the meeting she presented a report on the results of the Mass. Education Assessment Program (MEAP). The tests were given to fourth, eighth and 10th graders last year. This is the first time 10th graders have been tested, in the past and tests were given the seniors.

Fourth and eighth graders scored above the state average in both math and science. For the most part 10th graders were not significantly above or below the state average in these areas, with the exception of physical science where they had "strong results."

Fourth graders were 110 points above the state average in the scientific inquiry area. O'Donnell described this as being "really exciting," because she said, "it definitely shows that our teachers have been doing a lot of hands on and a lot of inquiry in the classroom."

O'Donnell commented that she was surprised at how well students scored in the social studies portion of the test. Her surprise came mostly because of the "very old text books and materials" students and teachers have to work with in that department. She said that particularly the eighth grade scores, which were 60 points above state average, indicate that teachers are doing a lot of classroom exercises, discussion, etc.

O'Donnell said that analyzing these test results is helpful because "we can see what we're doing very well and perhaps carry that over to some of the other areas where we may not be doing as well as we want to."

The Wilmington Council for the Arts will sponsor a demonstration/lecture by Jacob Mosser III of No. Reading at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 15 at the Arts Center.

Mr. Mosser is an accomplished New England photographer who has been awarded the honors of "Fellowship" and of the Photographic Society of America and "Master" in the New England Camera Club Council. He has judged and lectured on photography throughout the Northeast and for various photographic organizations in the U.S. and Canada. He is a former chairman of PSA's Nature Division, former president of the Greater Lynn Photographic Association and past chairman of the PSA Yankee Chapter. As an international exhibitor, he has achieved a four star rating in photo-journalist and among other international awards he has twice been the recipient of the prestigious "Eastman Kodak, Charles A. Kinsley Memorial Trophy" Although his work appears on assorted calendars and postcards, his primary efforts in photography are non-commercial.

The demonstration promises to be informative and enjoyable to both photographers and those who'd like to be. It will be approximately 45 minutes in length with questions and answers afterward. There is no admission fee.

Library page jobs available; Best sellers time is shortened

Page positions available Word has been sent to local schools and other town departments that the library has two openings for student pages (at least 14 years old) to work an average of 10 hours per week year round in the Adult Department of the library.

A page's main job is to shelve books and other library materials and to keep them in proper order. Basic computer skills and/or the potential to be trained on the library's computer system are necessary for checking materials in and out at the desk.

Application forms are available now at the main circulation desk and completed forms will be accepted through Saturday, Feb. 11. The jobs, which pay $4.50 per hour are scheduled to begin in late February.

Shortened loan period for bestsellers As a result of many patrons' having to wait for long periods of time for their turn to read current bestsellers, and in fairness to all, the library will reactivate the seven day loan period for bestsellers under 500 pages beginning March 15. Special loan periods for bestsellers are standard at most libraries in the area. A recent six month wait to read John Grisham's The Chamber, despite the fact that the library has 14 copies to lend, is only one illustration of the need for this change.

The pond, located on the corner of West Street and Suncrest Avenue, was cleared of debris in the summer, leaving a smooth ice surface this winter. Also playing Tuesday were Gerald Esposito, Jason Dango and Brian Kelley (photo by Jeff Nazzaro).

CHECK THOSE TAX REPORTS NOW!

There's a jumble of 1099s, 1099Bs, W-2s and other forms in your mailbox. January 31 is the deadline for companies to send tax reports of dividends paid to their stockholders and interest paid to their bondholders. Brokers and other financial institutions send statements listing the gross proceeds on every transaction in every account. The bank reports interest paid. Independent contractors get 1099s from those who have used their services through the year, and workers get W-2s from employers, listing income and taxes withheld. Be aware that the same figures sent to you will be sent to the IRS.

Stop now and check those reports. It's not impossible that there will be errors - errors that you will want corrected before tax filing time. Check the figures against pay stubs, bank books, mutual fund statements, brokers' statements and the like (you did save them, didn't you?). If there are discrepancies, contact the source of the report; make certain that you and the IRS get corrected reports.

It's not too soon to get started on your income tax returns. Talk to the "can do" tax people at

Tech names teens of the month

Kathryn Carey of Tewksbury and Robert SanSoucie Jr. of Billerica, seniors at Shawsheen Tech have been named "Teenagers of the Month" for January, through a program sponsored by the Billerica Lodge of Elks. Both students are recipients of many citizenship awards, given to students deemed "pleasant to teach."

Kathryn Carey

Katie, daughter of Richard and Barbara Carey, specializes in cosmetology, a field she was attracted to before high school. "I knew I wanted to work after high school rather than go to college, and I liked cosmetology," she says.

During the career exploratory, she was attracted to the construction field and says if she hadn't liked cosmetology after she tried it, she would have chosen "carpentry, electrical or plumbing. I like being with people and I like doing something active, not just sitting all day." In the Tech salon she likes working with hair, but has no preference among cutting, coloring or giving permanents. "I like it all," she smiles.

An honor roll student since ninth grade, Katie is a member of the Technical Skills Honor Society and has been a peer leader since her sophomore year. She worked on hair and makeup in grade 10 for the school production of "Grease." She works part time in the barber shop at Hanscom Air Force Base and has recently interviewed for a part time job at an area salon.

Following graduation Katie plans to concentrate on volunteer preaching for her religious group and working part time in a salon. She helped to build the Wilmington Kingdom Hall in a three day, quick build. She said it was "cool to see that there was only the foundation on Friday morning and by Sunday it was done and the lights were on."

Robert SanSoucie Jr.

Robert, son of Debra and Robert Sr., SanSoucie, is a health technology student, who has taken his skills into competition successfully as a member of the Shawsheen Health Knowledge Bowl team that won a state gold medal at the Mass. Skill Olympics of Vocational Industrial Clubs of America (VICA) in 1993 and a bronze medal at the National Skill Olympics. He will compete at the 1995 district VICA competition in March in another health-related category. Bob has been a member of the football and swimming teams since his freshman year and ran track for a year.

Bob said he was influenced in his choice of Shawsheen Tech by his parents, both graduates of the school. His father still works in the auto body field for which he was trained in high school.

Nurses Aide training

Looking for a new career choice? There is a tremendous need for certified nurses aides. Winchester Hospital is offering a 75 hour nurses aide training course that meets all qualifications to take the state exam to become a certified nurses aide and a stepping stone to becoming a home health aide.

Local student ambassador to Australia and New Zealand

Miranda Robinson of Tewksbury was one of 40 middle school students in Middlesex County selected to serve as student ambassadors with the People to People Student Ambassador Program. The program was founded by President Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1956. He believed that individual Americans reaching out in friendship to citizens of other countries could contribute significantly to world peace. Student ambassadors have fostered cultural understanding and goodwill across the globe.

Miranda will be traveling to Australia and New Zealand this summer. Program activities are designed to teach students about the culture and daily life of people in each country they visit. She will be staying with a family in Cambridge, New Zealand as well as experiencing an overnight stay in a Marae, the traditional village of the Maori people of New Zealand. Other activities include snorkeling on the Great Barrier Reef with instruction by Australian naturalists on the diverse marine life of the reef, hand feeding wild dolphins at the Tangleooma Dolphin Education Center, exploring geysers and mud pots at the Whakarewarewa Thermal Reserve in Rotorua and touring Sidney, Australia's famous Opera House.

By utilizing a field study approach, Miranda will be earning high school credits through the Center for International Field Study, established by the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching. She will be attending pre-travel and post-travel orientation sessions as well as lectures and presentations during her travel period. She will also be required to keep a journal of historically significant social and cultural locations and events observed during her travel and compare them to her lifestyle and culture. Once home, it is required that she write a summary comparing and contrasting Australia and New Zealand with the United States.

Providing Homes For People

Ski for Free

by Stu Neilson

On February 11, 1995 you can ski for free at Mt. Sunapee, in N.H. There is of course a catch, but this one is an easy one. The New England Handicapped Sports Association is running their annual ski-a-thon and they're looking for skiers. They are hoping that skiers with pledge forms filled out for $50.00 or more will show up (with checks in hand would be great) and join them for a great day of fun skiing. Anyone and everyone can help out. Able-bodied skiers and disabled skiers will be doing this. Even people who won't ski will be helping.

Where might you get a pledge form? They're available in two locations in Wilmington, at Ski Haus and at the Town Crier. Or call the Town Crier at 658-2346 and we'll mail you one.

I'll be participating, as I have for several years. I teach paraplegic and quadriplegic people to ski. It's quite a challenge but very rewarding. The program is all volunteer. The equipment however is not free, or cheap. That's why they need a fund-raiser like this ski-a-thon.

If you like to ski and if you have Saturday, Feb 11 off you should consider this. No further obligation is required, although it is encouraged. Just ski, have fun and help out a great organization.

Fifth grader needs help with homework

Dear Larz:
My name is Autumn Dawn Unsworth. I am a fifth grade student at Big Cypress Elementary School. My school is located in Naples, Florida.
My class is studying the U.S.A. I would like learn about Massachusetts. I would appreciate receiving postcards from your readers telling me about your state.

Truly yours,
Autumn Dawn Unsworth

Alternatives should be explored at Feb 7 meeting

Dear Larz:
I was surprised reading the woman's letter to the editor about the condition of Wilmington schools in the 1/11/95 issue. As a Tewksbury parent with a similar story, however, I was not comforted knowing we are not alone. Our schools are also overcrowded. Since then I have also heard that Andover is overcrowded and has approved a Proposition 2 1/2 override for $40,000 million. I applaud Tewksbury for recently taking steps, albeit late, to solve the long range problem of increased population in the town and therefore the schools.

But the short term solutions leave a lot to be desired. One temporary solution our school committee has suggested is to relocate the incoming North Street School kindergarten class of 1995. Is it really too much to expect that the Town of Tewksbury provide its students with an elementary school environment? After one or two years experience in a preschool setting, or more than that in a day care facility, children are ready and not only expect, but deserve to attend their local elementary school.

Most with older siblings are familiar with the hallways and teachers before they enter primary school. I find it totally unacceptable to isolate students longer and deprive them of the amenities and necessities of the elementary school they have been anxiously waiting to attend. To name a few, a program where five fifth graders read to them, Parent Advisory Council sponsored Arts Enrichment programs, use of the school library and playing on the new playground equipment that their parents helped to build.

Hopefully these and other concerns will be addressed at an Informational Meeting at North Street School the evening of February 7. I hope that everyone who feels as I do, and not just North Street parents, will show their support and attend this meeting. I think there are alternatives.

Thank you,
Liz Kelley

Community Roundtable marks first year

It has been a year since Rob Huebbers, a vice president of Winchester Hospital pulled together a group of community leaders. That group consists of members of each of the service clubs, Kiwanis, Rotary and Lions, and members of the town government. Fire Chief, Police Chief, Assistant Town Manager, Town Nurse, Chairman of the Board of Health, Superintendent of Schools, Selectmen, and members of other civic organizations such as AARP, the Chamber of Commerce, WCTV cable TV and a few large companies in Wilmington.

Although this sounds like a diverse group with many dissimilar interests, it is that diversity that has made it a strong group. Already they have taken on and completed several tasks behind the scene that impact the well being of the community. The first was to institute a Well Child Program. This was merely coordinating the work of several agencies with the backing of a medical practice and two service clubs. Now any child who needs a physical or shots can get the attention needed by speaking to the town nurse or Wilmington Pediatric. If the financial need is determined to be a factor, the cost can be defrayed. It was accomplished by just sitting around a table, and someone asking the question, "What can we do, together?"

Moving on the now named Wilmington Community Roundtable strove to upgrade the Wilmington Fire Dept. Ambulance. Town meeting had voted to purchase the bare bones vehicle. The Rotary Club was considering helping fund an upgrade. They brought the idea to the roundtable and with some cooperation and coordination the additional $30,000 was raised.

It should be evident to you now what was evident to Rod Huebbers a year ago: Wilmington has the resources to do anything it wants to do. In many cases they are already there and available; sometimes even duplicated. The Wilmington Community Roundtable is bringing the need and the resource providers together. That leads to the next step.

Winchester Hospital had acquired a building in Wilmington Square, on Church St., next to the telephone building. It was empty and waiting a use. They offered it to the Community Roundtable as a resource center. Since then it has been rehabbed by students from Shawsheen Tech and employees of R.C. Flodin and B & A Salvage, Northeastern Construction and Wilmington Builders Supply. Soon there will be an announcement of its operations and opening.

Another project was the Community Needs Assessment whereby four areas of need were identified: Jobs / business development, affordable housing / daycare, family and youth issues and community issues. Each of these areas will require an entire article in this newspaper and will be touched on later as the work progresses.

One project that is coming up soon is the Kiwanis Bicycle Safety Rodeo in May. Last year the Kiwanis Club ran the rodeo alone. One hundred sixty eight children participated. One hundred twenty helmets were distributed. Children all over town were seen wearing helmets for the rest of the year. This year the Roundtable will be assisting by putting other people in touch with the Kiwanis Club. Funding is being sought and volunteers are stepping forward. There should be a tremendous turnout.

The list goes on and on. The list will continue to go on and on. The monthly meetings of the Roundtable All this from sitting around a table!

Reading Light suing Wilmington

by Jeff Nazzaro

The Reading Municipal Light Department filed a complaint Friday in Middlesex Superior Court against the Town of Wilmington, its principal assessor, Humphrey "Skip" Moynihan, and Financial Director Joseph Peters "for failure to comply with the municipal electric service lien law," according to an RMLD press release issued at 5:00 p.m. Tuesday.

"Count I of the suit alleges that [Peters and Moynihan], acting in their official capacities, have refused to carry out the lien statute within Wilmington and have taken the position that they are not required to carry out the statute," the release states.

The move to court comes after nearly three years of discussion between the town and RMLD, during which time the town has steadfastly refused to exercise tax liens on delinquent RMLD customers. Most recently, the town, via a Jan. 23 board of selectmen vote, gave notice to RMLD that it would essentially "see them in court" if the light department chose not to pursue legislation to remedy the matter.

In a Oct. 18 letter to RMLD General Manager Leonard D. Rucker, Wilmington Town Manager Michael Caira proposed the two sides seek new legislation. Rucker responded two months later with a message from the RMLD Board of Commissioners "to pursue all avenues of resolving this issue, up to and including litigation." Those avenues did not include legislation, according to the letter.

"It is clear that RMLD is thumbing its nose at the board of selectmen and their suggestion that they try to mutually seek legislation to correct the problem," Caira said Wednesday afternoon. "We are just acknowledging that they are going to court to try to legally enforce the town to become their tax collector. There are other remedies for RMLD to collect their taxes and I think they should pursue them. It is incredible what happens when people let their pride get in the way."

Caira deferred all legal questions to Town Counsel Alan Altman, who was in court Wednesday and not available for comment.

Meanwhile, Rucker spoke from the other side of the coin.

"We regret that the RMLD and the Town of Wilmington could not resolve this issue outside the courtroom," Rucker said in the release. "The litigation outlines RMLD responsibilities to its customers as required by Massachusetts General Laws and [Department of Public Utilities] regulations, as well as the obligation we have to all our customers to maintain low rates."

So what's at stake?

In an interview Wednesday, Rucker said the amount owed RMLD by delinquent customers in Wilmington fluctuates, depending on the time of the year, between $15,000 and $50,000. The figure two weeks ago hit the top of that range, Rucker said, while bottoming out only six months prior.

Through 1994, RMLD served a total of 24,898 customers in the towns of Reading, North Reading, Lynnfield and Wilmington, with 7,547, or 30 percent coming from the latter. Revenues from Wilmington in 1994 totaled $28.45 million. Using that figure, the amount owed RMLD by Wilmington customers ranges as high as 17/100ths of 1 percent.

By refusing to implement the liens, the suit against the town alleges, according to the release, that "the RMLD and its ratepayers have been damaged by their refusal and the paying customers must bear a 'disproportionate' burden of its uncollected bills."

The lien statute is currently in place in the three other RMLD-served towns.

Between 1985 and 1990, according to the complaint, the Town of Wilmington and RMLD clashed on several occasions, including in administrative litigation over RMLD rates and charges. At one point, the town discussed leaving RMLD and forming its own power company before signing a 20-year agreement with the light department ratified in 1990.

Love Lights a Tree

Dear Larz,
My heartfelt thanks to everyone who helped to make the annual "Love Lights a Tree," sponsored by the Lowell Chapter of the American Cancer Society, a tremendous success in Tewksbury. The various colors, reflected from the tree at the center fire station, generated a special moment of hope that was felt by all who viewed it throughout the holiday season.

Not only were the ornaments hung on the tree in memory of someone close, but also in honor of a living relative or friend.

Ornaments have now been taken down and will be available at the center fire station until Feb. 3. Those not picked up by that date will be donated to the Tewksbury Congregational Church to be placed on the Tree of Hope in the Friendship Garden.

Sound planning yields needed space 35 years later

by Capt. Larz Neilson
In 1916 Wilmington constructed a new high school at the corner of School Street and Middlesex Avenue. It was built according to the habits of the day. Today one might say it was poorly designed, by today's standards.

On the first floor there were three large classrooms, seating about 50 pupils. Upstairs there were five more, smaller classrooms and an extra room for various uses. The gymnasium was in the cellar, sometimes flooded, and with a low ceiling. Some people later suggested that the Wilmington Grange Hall should be equipped for basketball, so that Wilmington students could have a "home" gym for games with out-of-town teams.

The teacher's rooms, too, were worthy of comment. The principal, near the front door had an adequate room with ample toilet facilities. The ladies, in a similar room across the hall, half a dozen persons, had an inadequate facility.

Thirty odd years later a new high school was constructed in what had been the Roman Apple Orchard, across the common. The town had purchased the Roman property, including the Roman House, for $10,000.

Edward C. Manning, Wilmington High School Class of 1928, a graduate of Harvard, was chairman of the Building Committee. He and his committee studied the problem carefully. Their conclusion was that a classroom should have no more than 35 seats. In 1950 the new high school was ready.

Manning and his committee invited Congresswoman Edith Nourse Rogers to be the speaker at the acceptance ceremony. They seem to have been proud of their work.

Some years later a Glen Road Building Committee was appointed. There were several such committees, one for each building to be erected, for instance the Salem Street Intermediate School, and the Buzzell School, on School Street. The Glen Road School Committee was to construct a school in the Silver Lake area. It chose a garden site in "Pop" Neilson's farm.

That committee made several visits to other towns to check school construction in other communities. It also visited the State Building Assistance Commission, in the State House on two occasions. Then there were 20 meetings in the Roman House to discuss the problem, contracts were signed with an architect.

They proposed a 15 room school house, to cost $800,000. They were turned down by the Town Meeting. A new approach was needed. A joint discussion was held with the School Committee, the Selectmen and the Finance Committee, etc.

An article for the 1958 Town Meeting asked for the establishment of a Permanent Building Committee, (PBC) with five voting members. It was to provide the town with an experienced building committee.

Another article for that same meeting asked for a 12 room school at the Glen Road site, not to cost over $400,000. Both articles were voted.

The PBC, as it became known, had three principle tasks facing it. 1. The new Glen Road School; 2. A new police station; and 3. a town garage. In addition it had to consider the future needs of the school system.

The Glen Road School was given priority because of the considerable need for classrooms. The PBC interviewed many firms of architects, and selected the firm of Valtz & Kimberley. It was a firm with an excellent record for designing buildings of high quality within given budget limits.

Valtz & Kimberley was told to plan a 12 room school within the given budget limits of $400,000. The plan was to be flexible enough so that it could be used on other locations. The instructions also required the architect to cut down on unneeded space - space which could not be used for educational purposes, rather than to use cheap building materials. The result was that there were no square corners outside. Instead it was a 14 sided building - hence the nickname

"round school."

In the first year of construction at Glen Road an error by a supplier of steel columns was discovered by the architects. Due to a steel strike the columns could not be replaced. Some manufactured wooden beams were substituted, causing a delay in the construction schedule.

Massachusetts Governor Foster Furcolo was the principle speaker, the day the Glen Road School was opened, November 9, 1960.

The members of the Permanent Building Committee at that time, were Vincent McLain, Raymond G. McClure, Erwin Hanke, Paul H. Niles and Joseph Courtney. Only one lives today in Wilmington, Mr. Courtney, former town manager, now an attorney.

The advisory members were Edward F. Page of the School Committee, and John F. Collins, Superintendent of Schools.

The PBC, while the Glen Road School was being constructed made an estimate of other sites in Wilmington where schools would be needed. It was based on a study by a consultant to the Planning Board. Interstate Route 93 would soon be going through the town and the Planning Board wanted to know what effect that highway would have on Wilmington.

The PBC in its report was thinking in terms of school costs. The Glen Road School had been planned because of the heavy population in the Silver Lake area, and was planned for six grades.

The second area chosen by the PBC was between Shawshen Avenue and Burlington Avenue, which led to the site on Boutwell Street where the second school was constructed.

Other sites named by the PBC were on Park Street, Hopkins Street and Ballardvale Street. Also named were sites for four intermediate schools.

Those PBC sites were soon lost by the wayside. The principal cause was other town business. The town hall, a small building across from the Congregational Church was becoming a busy place. New committees and new officials needed space.

And, incidentally, someone about 1963 made the remark that Jean Ashworth and Avco [now Textron] were the fastest things on earth, and both came from Wilmington. Jean, the fastest female skater in the United States held many titles. Avco was a firm engaged in the design of nose cones and rockets.

The students of the Glen Road School eventually were replaced by clerks, engineers, secretaries and other town officials as the town hall moved in. It is a marvelous building to be a town hall. All departments are within a few steps of each other. There is an auditorium in the middle for larger meetings or for voting. Give the successive town managers credit.

The Boutwell School was closed in 1979 due to decreasing student population. Later it was leased to the Abundant Life School sponsored by the First Baptist Church. Last year they were notified that the town of Wilmington would be terminating the lease. The town failed to override Prop 2 1/2 and failed to break the lease.

Last week Town Manager Michael Cairra announced that had provided 1 million dollars to allow the school department to occupy the Boutwell School. The Abundant Life School will be forced to seek other quarters.

This fall the Boutwell School will again be a place for Wilmington students. Visitors may have a look at what was planned to be an efficient money saver for the Town of Wilmington as well as a school will be able to see for themselves an example of fine planning.

Tewksbury seniors seek cribbage opponents

by Linda Jarossi
Fifteen two, fifteen four, a pair is six; and the right jack is seven.

If you play cribbage that makes sense, if you don't you're probably wondering what the heck I'm talking about.

Cribbage, for those who don't know, is "a card game scored by inserting pegs into holes on a board," (thankfully, the dictionary provided a clear definition because I had no idea how to explain that in a way that would make any sense).

If you want to learn you can, at the Tewksbury Senior Center on Mondays at 1 p.m. Then, once you've learned the basics you can join the weekly Wednesday games that take place from 1 to 2:30 p.m. at the Senior Center. If you already know how to play you can skip the lessons and jump right in.

Norman DeMarais, coordinator of the program, said they presently have approximately 52 people each week. The games are played on a "friendly basis or not at all," DeMarais said.

Participants are paired up with a partner, usually a different one every week, and everyone plays a total of five games each week. Individual scores are kept and at the end of each 10 week cycle totals are calculated and prizes given. It costs $3 per week and all of that money, except for the $10 it costs to rent the hall, is put into prizes and an event (going out to dinner, etc.) at the end of the 10 weeks that everyone is invited to participate in.

The program has been running for about two and a half years and DeMarais said, "it's been an enjoyable 125 weeks." He encourages anyone interested to stop by and join in. There are also games of whist (another card game) on Thursdays at 1 p.m. The Tewksbury Senior Center is located on Chandler Street.

19 Lloyd Road, Wilmington, MA

You've made the decision to add on to your home, but there are still so many questions. Should you add one room... maybe two... a new dormer... a room off the back... a second floor... an inlaw apartment? You have an idea of what you'd like, but you can't quite picture the finished product. You may even have already chosen a builder but, after looking through all his plans, you haven't seen anything that quite matches what you had in mind. Maybe it's time to call a residential designer.

Richard Medeiros, owner of RJM Designs, has been a Wilmington resident for 27 years. Even if you don't know him, you've probably seen some of his design work. Richard's projects include Wilmington's Buzzell Senior Richard Medeiros studies a set of plans in his Wilmington office.

Center, the addition to the 4th of July Building, and the WCTV studios.

That's nice, but you weren't planning on anything quite so large. No problem. Richard will tackle any project... from a 12x12 addition, to a complete new home. And, even though designing is his first love, he is also a licensed builder.

RJM Designs is located at 19 Lloyd Road, in Wilmington. Give him a call at 658-6817, and let him make your dream house a reality.

Reviewing a policy - John Doherty, Windy Sweeney and Teri LaBella. missing from this photo are Bill Wooley, Kathy Yarwood and Rich McCarran

Did your insurance agent review your policies with you before automatically renewing them last year? Don't you think that would be a good idea?

Wilmington Insurance does an annual review of every policy. Sometimes coverage is increased, sometimes the coverage is decreased. An experienced insurance agent will recommend the best value for you.

Many times you will receive a letter from one of those "big companies" offering to lower your premiums. What they don't tell you is that they may lower your coverage and leave you under insured. Remember: insurance is only good when it works.

John Doherty of Wilmington Insurance answered this way when asked, "What do you do?" "Protect the client. It's my job. Everyone in the office has been trained to give the best product for the best price. We represent many companies and can compare them to get the best value."

They protect homes and cars, property and life, boats and even can provide surety bonds. If you need insurance and would like to deal with an agent who knows you, and will remain in the same office for years, call Wilmington Insurance.

One of the services they provide is Free registry service. With two trips to the registry every day you can be assured of getting your new or used car on the road when you want. It's easier with a recent new car to deal with Wilmington Insurance. Your car must be inspected for damage. That can be done here in Wilmington. With other companies you must take your car out of town.

Another great reason for dealing with Wilmington Insurance is your summer (or winter) home in New Hampshire, Maine or Florida can be covered on the same policy as your home here in Mass. No more trips to North Egypt during the week because that insurance agent won't make a weekend appointment.

Weekend appointments? Yes! Of course! And evening, too! Just call 658-3805.

Save money. Insure yourself properly. Call today for a free review.

Board Watch -- Wilmington

• Board of Selectmen meets on the 2nd and 4th Monday each month at 7:00 p.m., Town Hall Room 9. Next meeting: Monday, Feb. 13. At their last meeting, Jan. 23, the board granted unanimous permission to Converse, Inc. to run fiber optic cable on telephone poles located on Fordham Road.... Heard from Town Counsel Alan Altman on the Reading Municipal Light Department's two-pronged plan on seeking litigation against the Town of Wilmington to place liens on delinquent customers and to seek state legislation to better collect bills. The board, after the recommendation of Altman (who called RMLD General Manager Leonard Rucker's offer a "heads I win, tails you lose" approach) and Town Manager Michael Caira (who said RMLD wanted to "get their cake and eat it too"), voted to go to court if RMLD presses the issue and to seek the legislation if RMLD doesn't seek litigation.... On Jan. 31 RMLD served notice that it will take the town to court, so it appears that will happen.... Caira presented his recommended budget for FY-96 (see story, page one).... Granted unanimous permission to the Wilmington League of Women Voters to hold their annual crafts fair on the Town Common, June 17.... Made appointments to the Economic Development Commission, which they established at 15 members; currently, Planning/Conservation Director Lynn Duncan, Principal Assessor Skip Moynihan, Caira, Selectmen

Diane Allan and Michael McCoy, Planning Board Chairman Dick Luongo and businessmen John Lucci, Kenneth Mastrullo, David Gagnon, Al Fiorenza and Ray Forrest have all been appointed, leaving four vacancies.... And finally, the board met in executive session for approximately 30 minutes and returned, releasing nearly all documentation on the water department investigation; copies of the several hundred page document were made available to the press and public at $50 each, to help recover some of the costs incurred by the town in preparing the manuscripts, Caira said.

• The Elder Affairs Commission meets on the third Tuesday each month at 1:30 at the Buzzell Senior Center. Next meeting: Monday, Feb. 13. The commission is currently focused on finding a tenant and/or funds to repair the roof of the old West School on Shawshen Avenue. Jimmy Carter's Habitat for Humanity organization has shown an interest; anticipated costs of the repair are $6,000.

• Board of Appeals meets on the 2nd and 4th Tuesday each month at 7:00 p.m. in Town Hall Room 4. Next meeting: Tuesday, Feb. 14. At their last meeting, held Jan. 24, the board had three new cases and two continued appeals on its agenda: two of the new cases were for variances from standard dimensional regulations (on Magazine Street and two under the same case number on Main Street); the third was for a special parking and landscaping permit for a Main Street parcel. The continued cases dealt with a special permit to divide an Andover Street parcel into two hammerhead lots and for a variance for a Naples Road parcel.... Mary E. Lewis active Tewksbury senior

Mrs. Mary E. (Perry) Lewis, 86, a well known member of the Tewksbury senior citizen community, died unexpectedly Thursday, January 26, 1995 at Saints Memorial Medical Center, St. John's Campus. She was the widow of Manuel Lewis who died in 1952.

Born in Cambridge, July 27, 1908, she was the daughter of the late Manuel and Rose (Pacheco) Perry. She lived most of her life in the Cambridge/Somerville area, moved to Stoneham and then to Tewksbury 10 years ago.

Prior to retirement, she worked as a confectionery packer at Brigham's Candies in Cambridge.

While living in Tewksbury she became active at the Tewksbury Senior Center where she traveled extensively. She was also a member of the Tewksbury Golden Age Club and a regular player at the Tewksbury-Wilmington Elks charity bingo Tuesday evenings. She was also a communicant of St. William's Church.

She is survived by two sons, Joseph E. and his wife Pearl (Gichun) Lewis of Tewksbury, with whom she made her home and Richard F. Lewis of Texas, daughter-in-law Ellen Lewis of Missouri; one sister, Kathleen Accolla of Stoneham; five grandchildren, Barbara Grondine, Donna Curtis, Joseph Lewis, Jr., Nancy Lewis and Robbi Lewis; and eight great-grandchildren.

She was also the mother of the late Robert Lewis who died in 1993, and sister of the late Caroline Diefenbach.

A funeral mass was celebrated Monday in St. William's Church, followed by interment in St. John's Cemetery, Cambridge. Arrangements were under the direction of Tewksbury Funeral Home.

Donations made in her memory to the American Cancer Society, 14 Loon Hill Rd., Dracut, MA 01826 will be appreciated.

The action of the Planning Board in advertising a proposed zoning change for a controversial lot of land between Main Street and Silver Lake, froze all development for the time being. No proposals for building plans could be filed until final action was taken by the town meeting relative to the zoning of the lot of land. The lot had recently been proposed to be the site of an office building, an issue that brought a great deal of local opposition.

The state approved the installation of traffic lights at the intersection of Middlesex Avenue and Federal Street. Rep. Miceli was instrumental in urging the Commonwealth to approve the funds.

Scoutmaster Tom McFeeley of Troop 136 and Bob Rachdorf of Troop 56 were pictured at a dinner celebrating Scouting's 75th anniversary.

Janet Crowley and Jeanne Neville were pictured as they teamed up to stop a fastbreaking Lowell guard in MVC hoop action. Gail Lombard suffered a broken toe in the game and would be out of action for the remainder of the season.

The Wildwood School fifth and sixth grade Mile Club was pictured and included Jason Bodah, James DeMarco, Jodie Lena, Patrick Kelley, James Pote, Thomas Ducey, Andrew Blackburn, John Martins, Kelly Clancy, Keith Hobbs, Jason Stevenson, Michael Maimo, Kevin Gibson, Joseph Wright, Cheryl Gill, Scott Azilli, Lori Mazzoni, Jill Suprenant, Jeffrey Dearing and Joseph Strob.

Superintendent tells of budget collaboration

by Jeff Nazzaro

As guest speaker at the Wilmington Kiwanis Club's meeting Monday, Superintendent of Schools Dr. Geraldine O'Donnell used a theme of collaboration to highlight recent budgetary successes between the town and the school department and to illustrate a need for more of the same in the future.

"We have a very fine working relationship with town government," O'Donnell told a friendly crowd of around 50 Kiwanians.

That relationship led last Monday to Town Manager Michael Caira's preliminary school budget increase of 8.5 percent, or an even $1.1 million - the largest such raise in the history of the town and enough to at least reopen and staff the Boutwell School.

But O'Donnell spoke of even more important collaborations - that between parents and schools, and the inexorable link between school and home.

How much do children read at home? how many books are in the house? how much TV is watched?

and how much time is spent discussing school at home? are all questions O'Donnell feels should be posed to parents, the results being better relationships between teacher and pupil, teacher and parent, and parent and pupil.

O'Donnell also pointed to community collaboration that has led to a "directly improved school system," most notably through last summer's strategic planning retreat, which yielded seven separate strategic plans, including those for technology, curriculum, and professional development. That process included interviews throughout the community as to the strengths and weaknesses of the system.

But while O'Donnell indicated that things for the school department are moving in the right direction, continued work and collaboration in all areas are necessary to keep the schools on the right track.

"We're not out of the water yet as far as budgetary needs," she stated. "We need to maintain sports and music - hold that whole picture as best we can."

WE'RE MATCHMAKERS
Sometimes a good Realtor may remind you of your favorite aunt who is always trying to fix up her single nieces or nephews with her friends' unmarried sons or daughters. She really gets inspired when her efforts result in a great marriage. We match prospective buyers with the perfect home for their family - and when it works, we feel terrific! And, more important, our buyers and sellers feel terrific.

The sellers often have a strong attachment to a home that holds many memories for them. It is important for them to know that the new buyers will love it, too. While any sale can potentially become complicated and present difficulties, problems seem to work themselves out more easily if we have started out on a positive note. This is one important reason why we work hard to maintain a good rapport between the parties involved in the transaction.

For professional advice on buying or selling real estate, please drop by our office in the Starwood Building at 299 Main Street, or call us at 657-8444.

The MSPCC is the only private, nonprofit statewide child welfare agency in the nation offering protective services. Since the MSPCC was founded in 1878, more than one million children have been served throughout the state.

Women's Club will meet Feb. 16

A highlight of the holiday season was the "Festival of Trees" held at the Wilmington Arts Center featuring a beautiful tree decorated with novel and artistic ornaments fashioned by members of the Women's Club. This was under the direction of Liz White and Constance Ferguson. That same weekend members enjoyed a holiday celebration with Vesper Services at the Old North Church. It was in mid-summer of 1994 that members of the club in setting up the forthcoming yearbook and recalling the severity of the weather of the previous winter, chose to cancel the January, 1995 meeting...well (?)

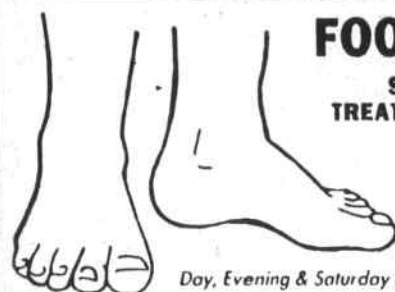

The club will hold its February meeting Thursday, Feb. 16, with luncheon at noon. Phyllis Flaherty is chairman of the luncheon committee consisting of Helen Allen, Dorothy Fairweather, Phyllis Garrett, Doris Haradon, Jean Hartka, Jessie Hudson, Margaret Kazmaier, Helen Noonan, Beverly Soper, Edith Lyford, and Rita Stone.

The invocation will be given by Dorothy Pinkerton. Following the business meeting a program called "I Haven't a Thing to Wear" with clothes belonging to and modeled by members will be presented. Chairmen will be President Edith Michelson and Liz White.

Wilmington senior topics

Income tax assistance

Income tax assistance for the elderly will be offered at the Senior Center every Wednesday starting February 8. Tax counseling for the elderly is co-sponsored by the IRS and AARP. It provides free tax preparation to taxpayers 60 years and older with low to moderate income. Joe Hughes and Millie Zeigler, tax preparers have been going through extensive training on all the changes that will be on this year's forms. Appointments will be made on Wednesday only by calling the office at 657-7595 or 658-2258. It will be necessary that one have all necessary information at the time of the appointment including federal and state forms, tax books that arrived in the mail, all 1099 forms, W2 form and all other pertinent information. Do not ask to have taxes prepared that should be completed by an accountant or an attorney. Those taxes would involve a number of additional forms.

Programs available

There are many programs available at the center to keep seniors physically active, but there are also activity programs outside the center that one may want to get involved with. Those include swimming at Shawsheen Tech and bowling every Wednesday afternoon at Candlewood Lanes. No. Reading. Many seniors who are active in the Senior Bowling program are no longer able to enjoy the game. Many new seniors have enjoyed bowling when they were working. They are urged to become involved with Senior Bowlers program and get back to enjoying the game again. One may also meet some nice people who have the same interest in the game. Perhaps a senior who has never bowled before and always wanted to learn should try. Bowling is an excellent vehicle to exercise, not only the body but the mind. It is good for both men and women and the cost of a string is $1.25. Shoes are free. Just be at Candlewood Lanes next Wednesday at 1 p.m.

Shine worker

Those with questions about insurance coverage are reminded that a Shine Worker will be at the Center Tuesday, Feb. 7 from 1 p.m. Call the center as it is necessary to let Mr. Hodge know how many seniors he will be expected to see.

Hearing aid specialist

The hearing aid specialist will be at the Senior Center Thurs., Feb. 14 starting at 9 a.m. He will be checking the hearing of seniors and the proficiency of hearing aids. Those having trouble with hearing aids are urged to be on hand. Call the center before the 14th.

Life line button

Any senior living along with or without medical problems should have a Life Line Button on them at all times. Living at home can be enjoyable and rewarding, but the possibility of accident or sudden illness is always there. The program is a personal response system that links one with 24 hour assistance at the push of a button. It allows seniors to move freely around home or yard with confidence knowing that help is nearby if needed. Lifeline will call for it. Most hospitals in the area have the Life Line Program. Call a local hospital for details.

Lady Cats move into second place

by James Pote
Despite a terrible midseason, the Wilmington High School girls basketball team has jump started their overall record to 7-8 with its win over Lowell on Tuesday night on the Cushing parkway floor.

With their 65-33 romp over Lowell, and their 40-38 win over Billerica this past Friday, the girls are currently seeded in second place in the MVC small school conference. With just five games remaining on the regular season schedule, head coach Jim Tildsley knows that the girls cannot miss the final ride.

"We have a real good shot at first place. We have been playing really great since the second half of the Billerica game. Leanne (Harris), Becky (Rodgers), Erin (Falzone) and Lisa Southmayd played really well tonight (against Lowell) and they have been getting a lot of rebounds which has helped us out tremendously."

Tildsley also said that the leadership of the teams two captains has now started to become contagious. "Nancy (Pote) and Jacqui (Hayden) are really starting to understand that they are leaders and that the team needs them to be leaders. Everyone has stepped up and right now we are playing pretty good."

Right now, the girls trail Lawrence who has a 5-2 overall record against its league opponents. But, Lawrence played Andover on Tuesday and they still have to play Haverhill and Methuen which looks very good for Wilmington as those three teams are right at the top of the large school division. As for Wilmington they will face Dracut on Friday and then travel to to Methuen, home against Tewksbury and finishing it up on the road against Lawrence and non-league opponent Bedford.

Not only do the girls have to walk away with atleast four wins in their last five to hopefully give them a first place title, but they also have to win three out of five to get into state tournament play for the third time in the last four years. And the only way they will be able to do that is to play the way they did against Lowell - where they would have walked over any team playing the way they were.

"Our shot selection was fantastic. We ran the ball, we set it up and we only turned the ball over 13 times which is good for us. Our defense played a lot better with a different zone coverage and half court pressure which created a lot of steals - I thought we really played well," Tildsley said.

Wilmington came out of the gate against Lowell extremely fast. Leanne Harris set the pace when she scored ten points in the first seven minutes of play. A majority of her points came from the combination of Nancy Pote and Lisa Southmayd who combined for eleven assists - make that eleven very impressive assists.

Harris finished the game with 17 points and 12 rebounds with eight of those boards coming in the first half, while Pote finished with five points, six assists and six steals. Southmayd ended the night with six points, eight rebounds and five assists with Renee Vachon and Jacqui Holloway also scoring eight points each. The latter scored all of her eight points with less than four minutes remaining in the game when she nailed four very impressive outside shots.

The scoring list is still not done yet as it was a complete team effort as all ten players scored atleast one point. Jamie Forgett and Jenna Tait were next in line with seven and six points respectively, followed by Erin Falzone at five, Becky Rodgers at two and Jacqui Hayden with one.

Wilmington dominated from the opening tip off with leads of 11-4 at the 12:04 mark, 21-6 at the 9:09 mark and 31-8 at the 4:25 mark before they closed the half with a 35-10 margin. Harris and Vachon led the team with eleven and six points at the break.

The start of the second half, the girls were "a little overconfident," and they slipped a bit when Lowell closed the once 25 point lead to an 18 point led for the Wildcats with just under six minutes into the second half. Tildsley called timeout and the problem was fixed as the Wildcats cruised from that point on with a 25-11 score.

On Friday, the girls beat Billerica 40-38 when Jamie Forgett nailed two very big shots in the closing minute, with one being a three pointer. Nancy Pote put the finishing touches on the win when she hit a freebie to put Wilmington up by two points with just three seconds left. Billerica however, couldn't pull off any kind of heroic play.

Playing well were Lisa Southmayd with ten points and Jamie Forgett and Nancy Pote with seven and six points respectively. The former also had four assists while Holloway and Harris combined for 17 rebounds.

Kivlehan nets 21 in first game back

by James Pote
When good things come, it seems if bad things are right around the corner - that's life, no that's the Wilmington High School boys basketball team.

First the good news. For what was supposed to be between four to eight weeks of recovery, senior guard Dan Kivlehan came back after a seperated shoulder, where he scored 19 of his team's 26 first half points which included 17 of the first 19.

Now, the bad news. With less than 20 seconds left in the game and down by three points, and with the ball in the offensive zone, Wilmington was unable to put up a shot as they fell to Lowell 54-49 this past Tuesday.

But, that play wasn't the reason why the team lost. Actually it was the free throw shooting which was 19-30 in the second half. And that is what a team must do to win and head coach Jim McCune agrees.

"The bottom line is we didn't hit our free throws down the stretch.

We played well and we have improved a lot since the first game but we have to hit those free throws to win."

Back to the good news - Kivlehan was just awesome in the first half when he scored 19 while finishing at 21 when he fouled out with five minutes remaining in the game. He did everything right as he hit jumpers, lay ups and also a three pointer as well. And he also hit six free throws. "Dan was a big plus back. He took some pressure off of Dave DeSantis and some other guys and he played real well," McCune said.

At the halftime break, the Wildcats were down by one point at 28-27. After Kivlehan, Dave DeSantis was next with four points and Brian Carroll with two.

The start of the second half, the Wildcats started off a little slow as Lowell jumped to a 38-32 lead with that growing as much as 46-36 at the 6:10 mark. Wilmington closed that to six when Dave DeSantis and Paul Bruno hit a pair of free throws. Freshman Scott Swierzynski nailed two of his three free throw attempts with 28 seconds left to cut the lead to three where it could not be lowered anymore as Wilmington fell to a 5-9 overall record.

DeSantis and Bruno finished the night with nine and six points respectively, while Kivlehan and Bruno led in rebounds with ten and eight, respectively.

Right now, the boys have six games left on their schedule and they have to win five of them to make it to state tournament play. Up and coming will be Dracut on Friday which McCune calls it the "season" and then Methuen, Tewksbury, Lawrence and non-league opponents Bedford and Manchester.

ARE YOU PROTECTED?

by Edward H. Wilkens

YOUR OWN FIRE HOSE

QUESTION: How can I have a water hose INSIDE our home in case of a house fire? The outside garden hose would be useless.

ANSWER: Not a bad idea. Experts estimate that if a hose was readily available in the early stages of a fire, half of all fires could be squelched before the fire engines arrive.

To be effective, one should be installed on each floor of the house, under a bathroom sink or in a utility room where it can be unwound quickly to reach all rooms — especially the bedrooms. All that's involved is breaking into your cold water line. Have a plumber do it — it shouldn't take more than an hour of his time.

YOU CAN RIG up a portable hose on each floor of your home in case of fire.

Squirt A's crowned tourney champs

Last Friday found the Wilmington Squirt A Youth Hockey team on a ferry headed the Fifth Annual Martha's Vineyard Youth Hockey Tournament.

This was the first time in memory that a Wilmington team had entered this notable tournament.

In their first game on Friday evening, Wilmington faced off against a team from Wellesley. In spite of being outshot by their opponents, the Wildcats held on for a hard fought 2-1 victory.

Happy to start the Tournament with a win, little did the Wildcats know they would see Wellesley again this weekend.

Saturday started with an early game against the host team of Martha's Vineyard.

In a close game that could have gone either way, the Wildcat's pulled off their second win, this time by a 5-3 score.

Later that same day Wilmington faced a team from Dover, N.H. Dover's style of play netted them 12 penalties while Wilmington's unquestionable sportsmanship and control netted the ten goals and which gave Wilmington a win to put them in the championship game.

Ryan Higgins and Danny Liberty each scored hat tricks and goalie Justin Brady recorded a shutout as the Wildcats outshot Dover 43-3 in a 10-0 win.

In the championship game, Wilmington had expected to face the USA Huskies from Michigan. Thanks to an upset by Wellesley, Michigan was sent of the Consolation Round.

This was only the second loss of the season for the Michigan Huskies and set up a Wellesley/Wilmington rematch for the championship.

Sunday morning found the first place Wildcats facing second place Wellesley. Just 30 seconds into the game Wellesley's Tyler Brodie scored to put his team ahead by one. The Wildcats came back and with 2:14 remaining in the first period Pat Cushing tied the game on a pass from Ryan Higgins.

The first period would end with Wellesley's D.J. Hynes scoring to put his team ahead 2-1. The only scoring opportunity of the second period would be a Ryan Higgins' goal assisted by Pat Cushing to tie the game once more.

In a tough defensive battle Wilmington held Wellesley to only one shot on net in the scoreless third period. At the end of regulation time, with the ferry to the mainland waiting, the championship game was tied. Two tough and tired teams played two scoreless overtime periods.

Finally after over five periods of superb hockey, Wilmington defenseman Brian Aldrich passed the puck to winger Danny Liberty to score the winning goal, one minute into the third overtime period.

The Wilmington Squirt A's came home with a 4-0-0 record and championship trophies in their hands, but more importantly the players and their coaches displayed sportsmanship and fine play of which Wilmington can be very proud.

Wildcat Ryan Higgins was awarded the MVP trophy by the tournament director for his great play. Ryan had seven goals and four assists to help his team win the championship. Congratulations to Wilmington's Squirt A Youth Hockey Team!

Seventh grade girls power past North Andover

The Wilmington Wildcat girls seventh grade basketball team got back on the winning track when they defeated North Andover by a score of 37-31, on Saturday.

Lindsay Bruno and Alicia Paquin combined for seven steals in the second half to put the Wildcats ahead to stay. Megan Sullivan played tough at center putting in eight points.

Karen Langone, Katie Holloway, Lauren McCarthy and Paquin each had four points. Karen Hardy played a great game coming off her finger injuries. Lauren Lorgerece and Kristi Langone each put in a basket while Maura Lynch played a tough defensive game pulling down many rebounds.

White Knights are falling quickly

Last Thursday's games were played with the following teams:

The first game saw the gentlemen like Blue liners against the surprising Chiefs. In this game the Blue liners played like gentlemen, no tone penalty was called on them; on the other hand the Chiefs had three minor ones at that. This game played to a 2-2 tie.

Thursday's second game had the surging Ice Hogs versus Team 8. They also played to a 3-3 tie. Not bad, all teams Thursday received one point in the standings.

Friday's first game had Goldenstate versus White Knights with Goldenstate winning 6-5. A couple of weeks ago the White Knights had a chance to tie for first place against the Outlaws; however, they did not win this game and got pummeled 8-3. Ever since that loss they are 1-4. They have dropped in the standings to third place in a very tight race.

The problem with this team is there are a few players' egos that get in the way, for example, if you can't play a position and play that position as hard as you can, meaning skate every moment you're on the ice, then get your butt off the ice.

Friday's last game had the Outlaws winning again 7-3 against the Red Team.

Standings
Outlaws	16-4-1
Goldenstate	12-7-2
White Knights	12-8-0
Blue liners	10-8-2
Ice Hogs	7-10-3
Red Team	7-12-2
Team 8	6-12-2
The Chiefs	6-14-1

Pee Wee B's defeat Beverly

The Wilmington Pee Wee B Youth Hockey team had a tremendous victory against second place Beverly.

There were only two goals to speak of in the first period and they came really early.

Beverly opened the series with the first goal at 11:27, but Wilmington came back 30 seconds later when Eric Banda fed Michael Petroulas down the middle to tie it at 1-1.

The Wilmington team showed great strength throughout the rest of the period, but at the end they found themselves shorthanded after receiving an interference call which they managed to control.

Even though Wilmington started the second period shorthanded, they came up big near the end when Adam Jervis found Andrew Campbell, who drove in for the actually "winning" goal, to make it a 2-1 game.

Goaltender Blain Smith and the defensive talents of Mike Comer, Billy Hafner, and Scott Buck shut down Beverly entirely for the rest of the game.

The offensive line of Petroulas, O'Neil and Banda did more damage to Beverly.

John O'Neil's great effort extended the lead when he sent a pass out front from behind the net and found Eric Banda to make it 3-1. Eric Banda came back later in the period, stole the puck in the neutral zone and took it in alone and closed this game with his second goal for a 4-1 victory for the Cats.

New Hampshire ice fishing derby still on!

Don't give up on ice fishing derby plans yet! The biggest ice fishing derby in New England will still go ahead this year, but not exactly as planned.

The Great Rotary Fishing Derby, in Meredith, New Hampshire, has been delayed one week, but it was NOT called off, despite rumors to the contrary, and despite that oh-so-clever hint that a fishing derby was called off that ran in the Saturday Lowell Sun. The Sun did cover its tails by not saying which derby, but the mention ran above a story about treacherous ice on Lake Winnepesaukee. That was sneaky.

The Meredith Rotary Club - Pepsi Derby won't take place this weekend, February 4-5, as planned, but the event WILL go ahead February 11-12. It's still on!

This is the first time the huge ice fishing derby has been moved in its 16-year history, and this bizarre El Niño winter is the reason.

There was talk of cancelling the derby, Rotary publicity director Jim Morash said, but temperatures turned seasonably cold again. The derby bosses decided that another week of decent cold may make for safer ice in time for the event. The decision was made last Wednesday, a few hours after our press time.

Morash advised anglers to leave their vehicles on shore this year. The ice might be safe enough for vehicles on some sheltered lakes, and even on some of the quiet bays of Lake Winnepesaukee -- but when your steering wheel gets wet it's too late to think about it. He added that there should be safe enough ice for anglers on foot, but you take your life into your hands driving on.

Morash said the wider sections of Lake Winnepesaukee were open as late as this Sunday, January 29, and that patches of open water could be seen on Wolfboro Bay and Center Harbor. Usually the entire lake has thick, safe ice this time of year. Ask around at the bait shop, because the place you plan to go fishing might have been open last night!

The derby is based at Meredith Bay, Meredith, New Hampshire, but all waters in New Hampshire are open for the "biggest fish" pool. Derby officials need to think about the ice conditions in Hudson, New Hampshire, just as much as they do Lake Winnepesaukee and all points north. This is a statewide event.

"We want people to be aware of the conditions so that they use can their better judgement and common sense," Morash said on Monday.

Morash said anglers may obtain refunds on their 1995 entry fees, or request an exchange for a ticket to the 1996 event. He admitted that many anglers plan all winter for the derby, and sometimes those plans simply can't be changed quickly.

Those seeking an exchange or a refund should send their ticket stub to the Great Rotary Fishing Derby, P.O. Box 1210, Meredith, NH, 03253-1210. Returns or exchanges must be postmarked by February 8, so don't delay in mailing it off!

"We sincerely regret the inconvenience," Morash said of the one-week delay, "but safety issues must prevail."

The prize structure remains the same this year, Morash said, in spite of the delay. A number of tagged rainbow trout were stocked by New Hampshire fish and game types into several of the big lakes in the state, and the angler taking the biggest tagged rainbow had better have a trailer hitch on his pick-up. The biggest tagged rainbow this year is worth a 1995 OMC Sunbird "Neptune 180" 18-foot boat with trailer; the second-biggest will earn the lucky angler a 1995 Princecraft 14-foot boat and trailer, and the third-biggest tagged trout is worth a cool $1,000 in cash. Also, the next 10 heaviest tagged rainbow trout will be worth $150 each, which means nearly $22,000 in cash and prizes will be awarded for tagged rainbow trout alone.

And that's not all!

There will also be cash prizes for the heaviest pickerel, yellow perch, white perch, cusk (caught on "cusk fishing devices," eh, Bob & Chad?), lake trout and "untagged" rainbow trout, plus all fish that are still on the board at the end of the day will qualify that angler for an additional $1,000 cash prize drawing.

But wait! There's more!

In addition, there will be a ticket stub drawn every half hour that is good for $100 in cash, a drawing will be held at 4 p.m. Saturday for $500, and a $5,000 cash drawing will go to the lucky ticket-holder at 4 p.m. on Sunday, and all of these door prizes will be mailed to you! You don't even need to fish! Just pay the $15 entry and go sip a cold one! There are also merchandise prizes and juvenile prizes, making the Great Rotary Fishing Derby the biggest, richest and most hectic ice fishing derby in New England, bar none.

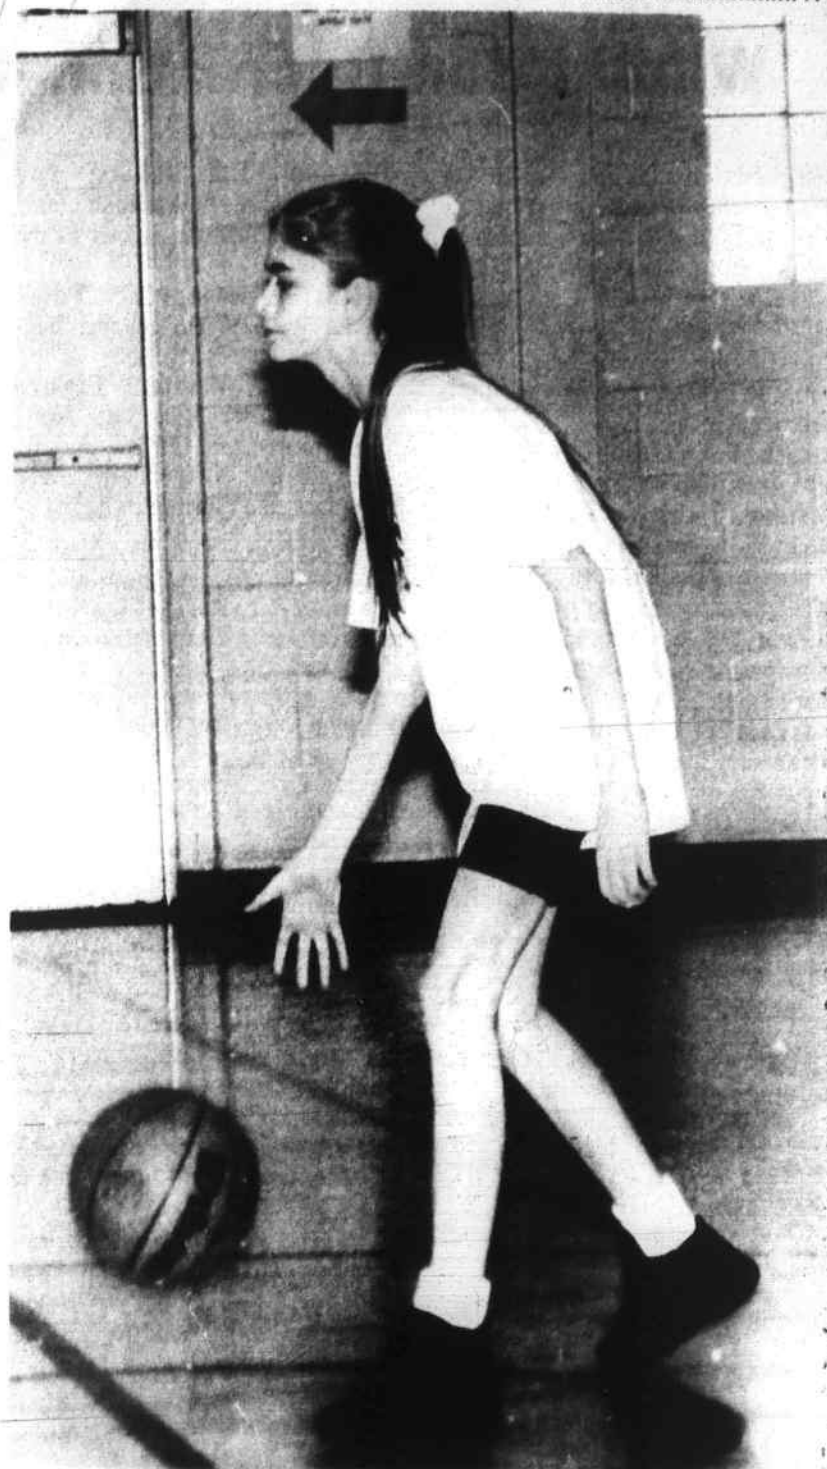

Derby entries and rules may be obtained by mail, at the address given above. All anglers must have a valid New Hampshire fishing license, but those are available when signing up as well!

— Tackle Box —

The results of this past Sunday's ice fishing derby by the Greater Lowell Fishers club are, sadly, not in existence. The GLFF will try again on February 12, on Freeman (Crystal) Lake in N. Chelmsford, if this winter ever starts behaving like a real winter again.

The S.W.E.A.T. derby on Ames Pond in Tewksbury is still planned for Saturday Feb. 25, with luck!

This weekend (actually starting on Thursday, February 2) is the Eastern Fishing & Outdoors Expo at the Worcester Centrum.

Space Camp

By PHYLLIS NISSEN

"Still out of their minds with excitement," Wakefield's youngest astronauts Ryan Savary and Daniel (D.J.) Keegan returned recently from five days at space camp.

Fourth graders at Wakefield's Greenwood School, they give new meaning to the words "deep space nine" and can't fathom the phrase 'final' frontier: at nine years old, they've already had the experience of a lifetime, and are ready to lift off again at a moment's notice.

Out to launch is their forever fantasy, and "You're grounded!" is not even in their vocabulary.

"Ryan lives, eats and drinks 'astronaut' - God forbid if he becomes 20 and doesn't become an astronaut," says Savary's grandmother Peg McHugh, who retired six years ago after teaching in Wakefield for 38 years. "They absolutely did not want to return home."

"Ryan and Daniel have always had an avid interest in science and space," says Ryan's mom, Alicen Savary. "Ryan first heard about space camp when he was five years old. He and Daniel have been planning the trip for four years because space camp doesn't admit students until they're in fourth grade."

U.S. Space Camp has branches in Florida (1-800-63 SPACE) and Alabama (1-800-SPACE-4-U), and programs for elementary, middle level and high school students as well as camps for parents and children, the hearing and visually impaired, adults, and educators.

Space Camp was started and is largely funded by NASA's Mercury Seven Foundation, which is composed of former astronauts. Its mission is to encourage children to explore the wonders of space technology and related fields in the hope of inspiring them to follow careers in those areas.

About 170,000 young students have graduated from space camp programs, and a recent survey of 4,000 camp and academy graduates who attended between 1982 and 1986 shows that: 80 percent later enrolled in more math courses, specifically algebra and calculus; 75 percent of the trainees polled indicated they learned about career options and 49 percent made career decisions based on their camp experience; and 87 percent took more science courses, primarily in aerospace and engineering.

Ryan, the son of Barry and Alicen Savary, and D.J., the son of Bill and Eileen Keegan, are not only the youngest astronauts in Wakefield, they were the youngest astronauts in camp.

'They absolutely did not want to return home'

Their getting to Cape Canaveral in Florida was merely a matter of synchronizing destination, destiny and good old-fashioned space craft: launching an application and medical form, obtaining permission from Greenwood's mission control to miss a week of school, coming up with $450 plus air fare - and waiting four interminable years.

Woodchips

ANTHONY MANCONI

This "Chip" is in grateful acknowledgement to a wonderful Jewish lady and family friend of many years ago, Mrs. Ida Kirshtein. She repeatedly told my father that his philosophy was "Wrong-Wrong-Wrong. Education comes first, eating is the second priority." I humbly and prayerfully thank the late Mrs. Kirshtein for bombarding my father with hundreds of reasons to send members of my family to high school and then on to college.

Because of her insistence, there are numerous doctors, lawyers, teachers and other professionals in my immediate family and cousins. That, folks, is one of many reasons why I love the Jewish people, who consider "Education" second only to their religious faith.

At my Aunt Nora's garden birthday party years ago, she mentioned out loud, one by one, the many professionals then added with a wry smile, "of course you all know the only failure is the Woodchipper."

To everyone's credit, no one laughed. Joey Aldo and I took a short-cut going to high school and, going through a field we climbed over a barbed-wire fence where I tore the seat of my pants. I didn't have a safety pin and neither did Joey.

We continued on to school anyway. I entered the classroom late and Mrs. Ellison looked up at the clock then at me saying, "I see you're little behind this morning Anthony."

"You wouldn't have, Mrs. Ellison," I embarrassedly blurted out, "if my pal Joey had a safety pin!".....

It took the firefighters 20 minutes to put a fire out at the Old Howard, a Burlesque Show in Boston, years ago. It took over an hour to put the firefighters out...

Kathy puts so much cold cream and oil on every night-she "SLIDES" out of bed every morning... The title of the "Book of the Month" is "The Run to the Outhouse," by Willie Makit....

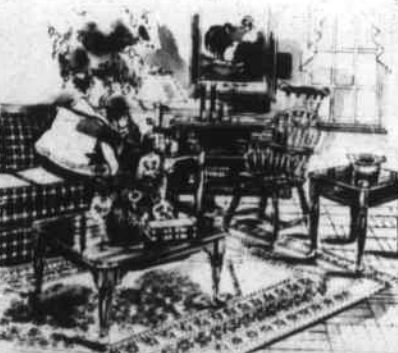

You don't have to be a dairy farmer to know that a cow is always milked from the "Udder Side." Ben Franklin said, "Education will never be more

About The Towns

by Phyllis Nissen

Two roofs but no rug

Not quite united

Having just put two new roofs on the building, Woburn Boys & Girls Club leaders feel their organization has had the rug pulled out from under it.

The club, which has watched United Way funds decline steadily to about half what it received 10 years ago, recently received a letter indicating that if it hadn't received $30,000-plus in '94, it would receive nothing in '95.

According to the Woburn edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle," the club received $24,400 in '94. On the other hand, the Woburn Council for Social Concern has a roof, a rug and a reason to feel relatively secure about $78,900 in United Way funding.

All area agencies are concerned about their funding because of changes in the Greater Boston and Massachusetts United Ways which seem to be thinking of sending funds from suburban groups to Greater Boston groups, "Greater Boston appearing to be more Boston than not, according to the "Daily Times Chronicle."

Woburn club Executive Director Glenn Stirling and President Jay Boyle are disgusted, noting that the club has increased tremendously in popularity in recent years, with co-ed programming and a full program for girls.

Fully staffed for the first time in several years, the Woburn club is one of 20 programs cut-out of 200.

What's $780,000, anyway?

Winchester Board of Selectmen have called a special Town Meeting for February 6th to deal with several financial items including the $3,194,000 or so necessary for library reconstruction.

After bidding and rebidding the project, the Board of Library Trustees has reported to the Selectmen that the additional $780,000 might make the library eligible for a state library grant which would provide up to $200,000.

The trustees intend to continue fundraising for items not included in the budget, such as landscaping and furniture.

A party and an adventure

"You'd be truly amazed at how much we've grown," says Meg Bond, founder of the Suburban Adventure Club, which will hold its fifth birthday party on Saturday, February 25th at Wakefield's Colonial Hilton. "We've gone through a lot of changes in the past five years but the focus is still on fun and friendship."

After having two separate organizations for a while - the Suburban Adventure Club for those in their 20s and 30s and the Suburban Activities Club for those in their 40s and 50s - they're back to couples number one, and averaging about 14 events a month.

So many events and so many members - married, dating, involved, and mostly single: the first SAC yearbook will be distributed at the party, a party which, according to Bond, you won't want to miss. For more information, call her at (617) 944-5804.

Talk about a successful venture: it's now Bond-Hamilton. Talk about a blessed adventure? Not yet.

Cops R Us

Wakefield's Citizen Police Academy has begun its second eight-week session, and participants this time around are Michael McLaughlin, Bob Pierce, Jack Wasserboehr, Don Hart, Ester Marcotte, Audrey Peck, Cheryl Rowton, Tom Evans, Herb Fletcher, Tammy Elcewicz, Todd Rosnov, Jeanne McCorry, Jerri Woodyard, Sydney Peck, Michael Serrecchia, Daniel Workman, Andrew McRae, Cindy Cook, Heidi Ellingwood, Debbie Fitzgerald, and John Marifiotte, Jr.

Lieutenant Robert Thistle is involved. And Sergeant Mark Pherson is billed as the academy director, which means, we suppose, that he gives out the awards.

The above information comes almost straight out of a caption for one of those fabulous Don Young photos in the Wakefield edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle." Hope we got the line-up right.

"About The Towns" covers recent events in the 13-town Middlesex East area. Because Middlesex East deadlines are early, please check the front sections of this paper for up-to-date information about your city or town. We also welcome original material - please send it to Phyllis Nissen, "About The Towns," Middlesex East Supplement, Box 240, Reading, MA 01867.

Space Camp

From S-1

... It's important for people to see how a teacher affects a child even in kindergarten. We can thank his teacher Linda Gray at the Yeuell School for introducing him to something he loves and sparking his interest."

Gray has already affected eternity, here and now: Ryan inspired best friend D.J. to boldly chart the same course, and Ryan's dad accompanied them both on the trek to U.S. Space Camp Florida, which is located at the entrance to NASA's launch complex.

The camp programs are coordinated to national math and science educational standards so the week itself was not just fun and games - it was math, science, aerospace technology, astronomy, physics, and rocketry. "They applied what they learned to hands-on training using space simulator machines like the 'multi-axis trainer,' 'five degrees of freedom chair,' and 'zero gravity wall,'" says Alicen. "These are the very same machines used by NASA to train their astronauts in knowing what to expect from space free-fall situations and feelings of weightlessness. They built and launched their own rockets."

The "Shuttle to Tomorrow" features a multi-media space shuttle flight experience while the astronaut and mission training features such items as typical astronaut ice cream treats; simulated microgravity; and new in '94, the Zero "G" wall, which gives would-be mission specialists an opportunity to work in a neutrally buoyant state while staying high and dry.

Savary and Keegan got with the program immediately from the building of an ACCESS (Assembly - Concept for Constructing an Erectable Space Structure) tower to satellite construction in a simulated clean room (sterile) environment and an introduction to the nation's current Space Transportation System. Also new in '94 is a 70-foot planetarium theater with a Digistar projector and the only Minolta Infinium star projector in the western hemisphere.

The program culminated with a simulated shuttle mission: orbiting earth in a rocket and safely returning to earth, utilizing classroom and hands-on experience. During the "impressive" graduation ceremony, the boys received special recognition for their work.

The week also included basketball, movies, swimming, a tour of the Astronaut Hall of Fame, and new friends from the states and Argentina.

All this ... and helmets, too. Plus swimsuits, lab coats and space gear galore: no wonder the return to the land of the lake and terra firma could not compare to five days of astro turf. "The multi-axis trainer was their favorite part," notes Alicen. "This machine tumbles you in every possible direction to prepare you for tumbling through space upon re-entry."

Space camp programs run throughout the year, from three days to eight. And tuition runs from about $475 (for the program the boys attended) to $750 (for educators' credit courses), including meals, educational programs, a log book, materials, accommodations, a T-shirt, and a visor. There are buddy, multiple family member, multiple attendance, and consecutive week discounts as well as a counselor-in-training program for college freshmen.

For information on all the programs, write to U.S. SPACE CAMP, 1995 Reservations, P.O. Box 070015, Huntsville, AL 35807-7015.

As for space pioneers Savary and Keegan, they had a blast: kept a log, starred in a video, won awards for rocketry and space station construction, tried their wings - and are still flying high.

In fact, they have even more to report - but there isn't enough ... space.

I found that out when I was in a car pool with Mario DiMino, when I worked at the Food and Drug Administration Lab in Winchester. While riding home late one afternoon, Mario made an abrupt stop behind a disabled car. We found out the problem was a loose wire connection.

Stroke: Not Just Your Grandparents' Disease

(NAPS)—When many people hear the word "stroke," they may consider it to be something that affects their parents, grandparents, or some other distant relative. But what they may not know is that 28 percent of all strokes occur in people under 65—meaning anyone could be at risk.

Although the possibility of having a stroke may seem remote, stroke strikes thousands of young to middle-aged adults every year. Despite this, many Americans know little about stroke. In fact, a study conducted by the National Stroke Association found that 97 percent of people don't even know the warning signs of stroke. Often referred to as a "brain attack," a stroke occurs when the blood flow to the brain is suddenly interrupted. Its devastating effects—from paralysis to loss of memory and speech—make stroke the leading cause of adult disability and third leading cause of death.

"Many younger to middle-aged people simply don't believe stroke can affect them. They may shrug it off as just an 'old folks' disease," says Fletcher McDowell, M.D., president of the National Stroke Association. "But people in this age group are affected by stroke. And with recent studies showing the key risk factors of smoking and obesity on the rise, the incidence of stroke among these adults may even increase."

Dr. McDowell's words reinforce why it's so important for younger and middle-aged people to get the facts about stroke—what it is, how it's caused and how to spot the warning signs. Common risk factors among people in this age group include high blood pressure, high cholesterol, eating a diet high in fat and smoking. Some of these risk factors hold even greater danger for women than men—some studies suggest that women over 30 who smoke and use high-estrogen oral contraceptives elevate their risk to a startling 22 times the average risk among this group. But with the right education, those with risk factors can take steps to prevent stroke early and learn to recognize the warning signs before it's too late.

Probably the most significant warning sign of a stroke is a "mini-stroke" or transient ischemic attack

In cooperation with the National Stroke Association, The Bayer Company is offering an informational brochure on stroke prevention. For your free copy and coupon for $1.00 off BAYER® Aspirin products, write to "Using Your Head To Prevent Stroke," The Bayer Company, 90 Park Avenue, New York, NY 10016, or call 1-800-332-2253.

'Highlander'

"Highlander - The Final Dimension" Starring Christopher Lambert, Mario Van Peebles, Deborah Unger. Directed by Andy Morahan. Screenplay by Paul Ohl. Produced by Claude Leger. Rated PG-13.

Why don't they just let that bloody Scotsman, Connor

McLeod, die? It would have save French actor Christopher Lambert the embarrassment of having to portray him again. One must assume that Lambert signed a contract forcing him to make this second sequel to the 1986 cult film, "Highlander." Unless he was paid a phenomenal amount of money, there is no other explanation for his appearance in this abysmal movie.

Those of you up on the Highlander phenomena will know that the original flick, which was graced with the presence of Sean Connery, was a critical yawn but attracted quite a following. An overproduced and muddled sequel followed, as well as a syndicated TV series and a video flick spliced together from the series. One would think audiences had had enough of this Clansman who can only die if decapitated.

This installment begins 400 years ago, when McLeod is in Japan perfecting his swordsmanship from another Immortal, a wizard who soon loses his head to Mario Van Peebles. The ebb and flow of warring energies causes the wizard's cave to close in on itself, sealing the evil Peebles inside a mountain for four centuries.

Flash to the present: Peebles escapes his rocky prison and immediately goes in search of McLeod, whom he hopes to destroy. McLeod, meanwhile, is living the good life in Morocco when he inexplicably decides to leave his adopted son and return to New York.

Because the rules of the Immortal's game state that "there can be only one," Peebles and his co-hort must part

Speechless in Stoneham

Stoneham Assistant Superintendent Dr. Ellen Bueschel said she was speechless and overwhelmed at the votes of confidence and the news that the Stoneham School Committee had voted to "conduct no search (whether local or national)" for a new superintendent.

The unanimous vote came at a specially scheduled meeting,

McLeod from his head to receive some Gift that is never fully explained to us. Naturally, Peebles has no problem finding McLeod.

Though shot on location in Canada, France, Morocco and Scotland, this has all the production value of a student film. Under the helm of video music director Andy Morahan, the movie is jumpy and jumbled, leaping from one ridiculous scene to another.

And poor Mario Van Peebles. His badly written character seems to have been made up as they went along. For instance, he suddenly acquires the unexplained ability to shape shift about halfway through the film. Peebles, over the top from the first, sounds like a cartoon character who is more laughable than frightening. Perhaps he was trying to balance the lethargic Lambert, who probably knew better than to show up for work on this turkey.

which set aside all plans for an outside search and cleared the way, according to the "Stoneham Independent," for Bueschel to fill Dr. William Hoyt's shoes when he steps down this spring. Hoyt is working on a contractual basis.

Stoneham School Committee member Stephen Gucciardi made the motion, following comments about Bueschel's candidacy, 1993's Ed' Reform Act, "daunting administrative issues" facing the school department, times of significant change, and the need for continuity and stability.

Committee members offered "glowing" and rave reviews of Bueschel's career in Stoneham, addressing budget realities and whether a search was warranted. A comprehensive national search could cost the school department between $10,000 and $12,000 what with advertising, travel and other expenses. And although committee members quickly noted that those expenses should not be a consideration, they also agreed with the parent who suggested the money could be better spent on the search for a new assistant superintendent.

On February 16th, the official vote on her candidacy will be taken; and on March 2nd, at the high school library, Bueschel will be given the opportunity to present her thoughts about the next administration and how she intends to lead the school department into the 21st century.

Several - make that, seven - years ago, Bueschel was a finalist in the race to superintend the Reading School System but withdrew from the process at almost the last moment. She must have known something.

Without in Wakefield

After 18 years at Wakefield High, Assistant Principal Joseph Sullivan has finally graduated.

Although he says he would have liked to stay, he's going where he "wanted to go," and will be leaving office at the end of the month to become principal of Carver High, a school "just the right size" with a population similar to that in Wakefield. Having recently separated from the Plymouth-Carver Regional School, Carver High is one of the newest schools in the state, with features such as a planetarium and large lecture hall as well as new programs and a faculty "very willing to change."

Next on Wakefield's agenda: how to replace Sullivan.

Wow! in Winchester

Winchester School Committee members unanimously decided to offer between $88,000 and $100,000 to the new superintendent expected to be on board in May.

The figure results from a survey conducted in January by Massachusetts Bay Co-op of Waltham and the realization, according to the Winchester edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle," that Superintendent Robert Fitzgerald sits on "the very bottom rung of the pay ladder."

Due to retire in August, Fitzgerald would have made about $87,000 if he had chosen to stay. According to information reported to the Winchester School Committee, the average area superintendent's salary is $97,000. Communities such as Bedford, Dover-Sherborn and Wayland pay their people more than $100,000.

According to Fitzgerald, potential candidates might question why Winchester pays its teachers on the high side and its superintendent on the relatively low side. School Committee members Kathleen Bodie and Jerilyn Heinold reasoned that starting out with a higher salary would be good because it would be harder to bump the salary up at a larger percentage than that of other town workers because it might offend them.

Although not everyone agreed completely with the move to offer more rather than less, Assistant Superintendent Thomas Budrewicz also pushed for a higher salary range, starting in the 90s, because "it's harder to attract the best candidates with a lower salary than other communities offer."

Will he be applying for the job also?
